The Mobile Community Services Office (CSO) project is a part of the DSHS Community Services Division's focus on streamlining access to vital safety net programs.

Statewide Access

Two mobile offices enable the Department to focus on the unique needs of each side of the state. The Mobile CSOs will deliver services and outreach to under-served communities. These offices provide a strategic opportunity to get support to working families in rural areas, our aging citizens and the homeless.

Full Service

Each vehicle is a fully functional office, equipped with all the amenities found in any of the 62 stationary Community Services Offices across the state. The offices include a wheelchair lift, semi-private interview areas, a reception area for four to six persons, and a sun shade for people to be protected from the elements outside.

Community Focus

By partnering with public and private organizations in Washington communities, DSHS intends to multiply the places where people can access DSHS services such as Basic Food and medical benefits.

Easy Access to Help

The Mobile CSOs are sent with trained eligibility specialists to areas around the state to accept and process applications for Basic Food, cash and medical benefits, conduct eligibility interviews, verify eligibility factors and authorize benefits to approved households, frequently the very same day.

Disaster Response

The Mobile offices will also be used to respond to disasters providing services such as replacement or disaster food benefits during critical times in people's lives.
